arrived in the city under the command of Major Lovell.

The troops arrived yesterday evening. There were in all 155 brave young fellows, who felt the dignity of the errand and the responsibility of this position. That this was true was evidenced by the exceedingly determined look upon their faces and the extra military precision of their step and general bearing.

As the train stopped, the militia, under command of their respoe ive officers, came bundling out of the cars, each solder in heavy marching equipment and wearing regulation uniform. A few minutes later the command to "fall in" was given and the four companies lined and wearing regulation uniform. A few manutes later the command to "fall in" was given and the four companies lined alongside of the coaches. By this time the crowd at the depot had in a measure recovered from the temporary fass mation of simply looking at the soldiers, and while they were being marshaled, preparatory to nearching to the armory, the humor of the spectators began to make itself manifest and the soldiers were greeted with remarks of ridicule.

The first person to brave the displeasure of the state troops was a small negroboy, who yelled out in glee: "You may bring your guns, ant you can't stop the fight." The remark proved infectious, and similar tamps were hurled at the unoffending sons of Mars. "Where is the governor?" "Go back home," and expressions of a like nature rang out while the soldiers were wheeling and turning. A detail of several men were placed in charge of the baggage and the remander of the militia under command of their commanders marched up to Bay street, thence out to the Wilson battery armory. Under the glare of the cleeting light they presented a martial appearance, and as they turned the corner into Bay street some one yelled out. "It looks like war, sure."
